

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

SUFFOLK, ss.

SUPERIOR COURT DEPARTMENT OF THE TRIAL COURT

JENZABAR, INC., LING CHAI, and ROBERT A MAGINN, JR.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

LONG BOW GROUP, INC.,

Defendant.

CIVIL ACTION NO. 07-2075-H

SECOND SUPPLEMENTAL AFFIDAVIT OF FRANK FARANCE

Frank Farance, under oath, declares and says as follows:

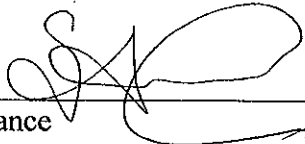

1. I am submitting this second supplemental affidavit in support of the plaintiff, Jenzabar, Inc.'s ("Jenzabar"), opposition to the motions of the defendant, Long Bow Group, Inc. ("Long Bow"), (i) for summary judgment, and (ii) to strike my prior affidavit(s). The statements and information in this affidavit are based upon personal knowledge, my analysis of the information obtained in discovery in this action, and my 30+ years of experience as a software architect, developer and engineer.
2. The purpose of this short affidavit is simply to respond to certain misleading statements made by Long Bow regarding my prior affidavit, including the experiment I described therein regarding the effect of adding keyword metatags on Google search engine results.
3. First, Long Bow challenges the experiment, claiming that I did not factor in Google's new "personalized search ranking" feature (which, according to Long Bow, means that Google search engine results may be affected by previous searches the same individual conducted). In fact, in accordance with Google's statements (which outline various ways to disarm or neutralize the "personalization" feature, see Ex. A attached hereto), I did not "Sign In" when I conducted the searches referenced in my experiment - which means that I was not logged into Google and, therefore, avoided entirely the "personalization" feature (see Exhibits B and C attached hereto). (If I had signed in, it would not state "Sign In" in the upper right hand corner of Exhibits C and D to my prior affidavit.) Thus, contrary to Long Bow's suggestion, this feature/factor had no effect, nor impact, on the experiment and validity of the results.

4. Long Bow next claims that, because I changed the content of one file, that a different factor, “freshness of content”, might have been the reason for the changes in ranking. The file I changed was “published_standards.html”, which did not change in ranking, but two other closely related files (“N1135” and “N1221”) did in fact change in ranking (See Exhibits C and D from my prior affidavit). These two files are in fact very old. The N1135 file was last changed on May 30, 2008 and the N1221 file was last changed on December 29, 2008. In other words, both files whose ranking were affected were at least 11 months old and, therefore, “freshness of content” could not have affected these results. (Furthermore, the purpose of my experiment was to simply show the falsity of the argument by Long Bow that keyword metatags have no effect whatsoever on search results, and therefore all that mattered for purposes of the experiment was that addition of keyword metatags to one page resulted in changes of search engine rankings of that page and/or one or more other related pages—which is, in fact, what occurred.)

5. Long Bow also suggests that I deliberately withheld information about my experiments, such as the time of the “before” and “after” snapshots (suggesting that the change in search results may have occurred over a lengthy period of time, during which some other variable changed). Showing the timestamp of the page is a configuration feature of the browser and varies from workstation to workstation (I use several workstations for my work). I did not intentionally withhold this information. In fact, at the time of the experiment, I purposely saved my screen snapshots in PDF, which records the timestamp of creation. The “Before” snapshot was created on December 2, 2009 at 1:19:52 PM. The file I changed on the website was modified on December 2, 2009 at 1:24:44 PM (approximately 5 minutes later). The “After” snapshot was created on December 2, 2009 at 7:50:31 PM (approximately 6.5 hours later). Copies of the “Before” and “After” snapshots are attached hereto as Exhibits D and E, respectively.

6. Lastly, Long Bow asserts (without any cited authority or support) that, it is not Google, but users of YouTube, who insert keyword metatags in the web code relating to the videos on the site. I am quite familiar with the operations of Google/YouTube, and this statement by Long Bow is completely false. While the individual user of Google/YouTube might place a video on the site, they do not in fact choose the web code, ie. the use of HTML metatags, as the method for rendering the web page. For example, in Exhibit F, I’ve uploaded a video with the tags “Jilly, Circus Kitty, cat tricks, human tricks”, but it is Google/YouTube that has chosen to use HTML keyword metatags for presenting those tags. Further, the home page of the YouTube site, itself, maintained by Google/YouTube contains the following keyword metatags: “video, sharing, camera phone, video phone, free, upload”. See Exhibit G attached.

SIGNED UNDER THE PAINS AND PENALTIES OF PERJURY THIS ___ DAY OF JANUARY, 2010.

Features: Query suggestions

Suggestions appear as you type

As you type into the search box on Google Web Search, Google Suggest offers searches similar to the one you're typing. Start to type [ new york ]-- even just [ new y ]-- and you'll be able to pick searches for New York City, New York Times, and New York University (to name just a few). Type some more, and you may see a link straight to the site Google thinks you're looking for -- all from the search box.

To pick a suggestion, just click it.

Why it's helpful

- Rest your fingers.
Need to do a big search on a tiny keyboard? Suggestions come in real-time, so typing [ great w ] and clicking 'great wall of china' is faster and easier than typing it out.
- Catch a mistake.
Did you mean: Melbourne Australia? Start searching for [ melborn ], say, and Google Suggest will offer more common spellings for what you might be trying to find.
- Skip a page; save some time.
If Google detects that a specific site is relevant to the search you're typing, we'll provide a link straight to it, so you don't have to wait for the search results page. If a link is to a site in our advertiser network, it'll appear in a colored box labeled 'Sponsored Link.'
- Repeat a favorite search.
If you're signed in to your Google Account and have Web History enabled, we may show some suggestions based on searches you've done in the past. You can tell a suggestion is from your history if it has a Remove link next to it.

Want to turn suggestions off?

To disable search suggestions, follow these steps:

1. Visit the Google Preferences page.
2. In the 'Query suggestions' section, select 'Do not provide query suggestions'
3. Save your settings.

If you don't want to see suggestions based on your web history, you have four options:

- Remove a particular suggestion from your web history by clicking the Remove link next to the suggestion as it appears. (If the suggestion is a popular Google search, it may still appear in Google Suggest, though it has been removed from your web history.)
- Sign out of your Google Account while you search on Google.
- Remove particular searches from your Web History at www.google.com/history
- Remove Web History from your Google Account.

More about Google Suggest

As you type, Google Suggest communicates with Google and comes back with the suggestions we show. If you're signed in to your Google Account and have Web History enabled, suggestions are drawn from searches you've done, searches done by users all over the world, sites in our search index, and ads in our advertising network. If you're not signed in to your Google Account, no history-based suggestions are displayed. Data you send to Google is protected by Google's privacy policy.

We try to filter out suggestions that include pornographic terms, dirty words, and hate and violence terms. If you encounter a term that should not be suggested, please let us know by posting in the Google Web Search Help Forum.

This is the new Bud Light Commercial - Paintball - Not Too Light, Not Too Heavy that just aired. It has the giant blue paintball that is dropped from a fighter jet during a paintball airstrike.

It's interesting how they depict paintball. If you freeze some of the scenes you can see some not so safe practices, plus learn from them.

They are not using proper safety procedures that should be adhered to while playing paintball.

What are some of those safety regulations you should always follow that they are not following?

Is this good or bad for the overall sport of paintball?

Modern Warfare 2: Gun Review Episode 3 By Champainz (Gameplay Reviews)

Champainz here to introduce you to a new gun review.

In Episode 3, I'll break down the differences between the Desert Eagle and the .44 Magnum.

InfinityWard gave them the same statistics I'll be basing the review on: Time taken to reload, time taken to switch-out, number of bullets in magazine, and amount of recoil.

Please rate, comment, and subscribe.

Sony has debuted the first official trailer for The Karate Kid remake starring Jaden Smith as the kid and Jackie Chan as Mr. Han, the Mr. Miyagi like mentor he meets. The Karate Kid, directed by Harald Zwart (The Pink Panther 2), stars Jaden Smith, Jackie Chan, and Taraji P. Henson. Smith plays Dre, a skateboarding video game buff who moves to China after his single mother is forced to go there for work. Unable to speak Chinese, Dre finds it hard to settle in, and gets beat up by the local bully. Chan plays Mr. Han, a maintenance man who spots his black-eye and offers to teach him both martial arts and Chinese, so he can defend against all the kung-fu students. Sony is bringing The Karate Kid to theaters starting on June 11th, 2010 this summer.

Heymo ^_^

I'm giving away 6 prizes for this Bubbi Giveaway weeee. They are all somehow Strawberry related lol... surprise surprise.

This is going to be another Prize Draw.

It starts 10th Jan and ends on 20th Jan. Commenting will be disabled after the deadline. Winners will be announced on www.bubzbeauty.com

To enter, you must be 18 or over (or has consent)

You don't have to be a subscriber but will be great if you are.

This draw is open INTERNATIONALLY => As long as you provide me with a postal address, I'll send prize to you ^_^

Enter "Please enter me in this prize draw and (1 New year resolution here)".

I'd love to know everybody's resolutions ^_^ stay well everybody!

I have already posted the DSK necklaces to the previous winners. Hope you girls will like it.

I hope you guys realise that I do giveaways as a way for me to repay you guys for being so supportive. Making videos and doing giveaways are the only way I can give something back to you all. I know my prizes aren't super expensive but its definitely from the heart => I travelled 2 hours there and back to get to that strawberry store for you guys =>

Much love, Bubbi xx

Experiment #194: Combination Padlock

Jory and I had a debate as to whether or not this would be a good episode. I knew it would suck, but he wanted to try it anyway. Despite my reservations, we filmed this episode, which turned out to be a stinker. To make the episode not suck, we recorded a special Mystery Science Theater 3000-style commentary for it, to provide you with some actual entertainment. So, you're probably wondering, Is It A Good Idea To Microwave This? Tune in to find out.

Twice a week, microwave specialist Jory Caron microwaves different objects... so you don't have to! The "Jory Caron Microwave Laboratory 2.6" is a state-of-the-art facility equipped with tinfoil shielding, a ventilation system, emergency surge protectors, safety clothing, and many sexy microwaves.
