Overwhelming Majority of Americans Support Medicare Negotiation

Public Citizen Analysis Finds Misleading Claims About Patient Support in Letter Opposing Efforts to Reduce Prescription Drug Prices

On Tuesday January 15, the National Osteoporosis Foundation wrote members of Congress on behalf of a claimed “224 patient organizations” opposing congressional efforts to empower the government to negotiate lower drug prices for Medicare Part D through striking the so-called “non-interference clause.”

Public Citizen analyzed the signatories list and found only 223 groups listed. Nearly half (46%) are not patient organizations at all.

Think Tank	1

53 are industry interest groups that do not represent patients, including trade associations like MassBio and the Virginia Chamber of Commerce. The groups have a clear interest in maximizing drug manufacturer profits on behalf of their member companies.

56 signatories are state affiliates of just 7 national organizations, leading to double-counting.

Of the 120 patient organizations signing the letter, at least 61 (51%) received financial support from prescription drug corporations, which oppose government price negotiation on behalf of Medicare. While such funding may not always influence organizational policies, it often makes groups more sympathetic to industry positions and more willing to respond to industry requests for support on issues which they may have little expertise.

A 2017 poll found that 92 percent of Americans support “allow[ing] the federal government to negotiate with drug companies to get a lower price on medications for people on Medicare.”<sup>1</sup> Despite Big Pharma’s attempts to confuse the debate, the choice for Congress should be clear.

The full findings appear below.
