ERRATA

An earlier email from the Washington Post erroneously stated that President Trump has departed the Oval Office. We stand corrected (by ourselves, as well as dozens of Twitter users). This event in fact occurred three months and a half from now, possibly.

Sadly, many thousand print copies of the Post, hurriedly assembled in the wee hours, were distributed on the streets of the capital. We are attempting to find and destroy the distributed papers. If you have seen one, please report it immediately to any reporter, who will attempt to track it down for return to the Post's safe composting facility. To assist you in recognizing stray copies, here are several photos of the paper being distributed near the White House this morning, and here is a complete PDF.
